Quality learning enables students to fail at things – and learn the lessons from those failures. This is how we develop our critical thinking skills to ensure that we are part of a lifelong learning journey. Collaboration and cooperation are key parts of quality learning. We learn best in different interactions with other learners.

What does quality learning mean to you?

(Paul Ramsden) Since the first edition of Teaching for Quality Learning at University, the tertiary sector has changed dramatically. Individual teachers, as reflective practitioners, still need to make their own decisions about how they are going to get students actively involved in large classes, to teach international students, and to assess in ways that enhance the quality of learning.
